Mosha the Elephant

Mosha the elephant is different from other elephants. She has a false leg. In 2007, when she was seven months old, she stopped on a landmine in Thailand.

Doctors had to remove her right front leg because it hurt her a lot. For two years she lived in the world's first elephant hospital in Lampang, Thailand, where she walked around on three legs. It was very difficult and painful for her to move, and she became lonely and sad. She wouldn't eat anything.

The doctors were worried. They were afraid that Mosha would not be able to move and she would die without food. They found out about Dr. Jivacate who makes false legs and arms for injured people. They asked him if he could help Mosha. Dr. Jivacate had never worked with an animal before. He wanted to try and save Mosha. Dr. Jivacate made a false elephant leg for her from metal, plastic and sawdust.

At first, Mosha was scared of her new leg, but as soon as she saw that she could walk with it, she didn't let the doctors take it off. When it was time for Mosha to go to sleep each night, her nurse took off her false leg and put it back on again for her the next morning.

Mosha is now healthy and happy- she eats 91 kilos of food every day! She is growing so fast that the doctors had to give her a second false leg that is big enough to carry her weight. Doctors think Mosha will live many long, happy elephant years.

One day, Medusa and her friends went to visit the temple of the beautiful goddess Athena. When Medusa saw the statues, she told her friends, "I am more beautiful than Athena. There should be statues of me here!"

Athena heard what Medusa said, and she was very angry. "You should be very careful about what you say, little girl", she said to Medusa. But Medusa was not scared. She looked at Athena and said, "You are just jealous!"

The beautiful goddess became even angrier. "I will punish you for this!" she said to Medusa's head, and put a terrible curse on the young girl. Athena told her, "When people look at you, they will turn into stone".
